MATTAPOISETT CHRISTMAS DISPLAYS

Part of the decoration in Mattapoisett this year was done by nature. The snowfall, as always, makes a contribution to the Christmas season that can't be matched by men. The white surface, reflecting the light from the decorated houses, adds much to the many displays this year. Visitors to every part of the town will be delighted by the variety of the lights and decoration. Good taste and care is certainly evident all over the town. The Mattapoisett Improvement Association, in appreciation and encouragement of the displays, are awarding citations. Citations or not, every one of the displays contribute to the color and beauty in the town and all are worth seeing.

The display at the Edmund Hickey home on North Street will be awarded a poinsettia for an amusing and original display with cartoon figures of St. Nick and two of his reindeer. One of the reindeer is boosting a well filled bag up to Santa on the roof as the other deer casually rests full length on the lawn. The figures were designed and made by Mr. Hickey.

All along North Street there are many lights and displays, and the youngsters have added much to the interest by building snowmen. There is a beautiful tree on North Street right off Church Street at the Richard Waterhouse home. This tree is decorated with blue lights in great loops that envelop the tree with grace-

The Leonard Pacheco home on North Street has an outstanding doorway with the entrance outlined in gold and with a gold tied wreath. This floodlit door received a certificate award. In this same the area, the Murray DeCoffe home and many others are very tastefully done. The Lloyd Baker home on North Street has a winking Christmas tree on the door which received a certificate award. Many of the homes in town have the extra decoration of nature in the form of icicles and the colored lights shining through these crystals have a soft diffused effect. The Wiggin home on Acushnet Road received a certificate for a flying Santa that is most attractive. This is at the bridge.

On Hawthorne Street the Jesse Souza home is outlined with lights and in the picture window a tree is shining. This was a certificate award. In this area there are many nice displays. A-

The Marion Road area is rich in displays that take advantage of the lines of the house by window displays there and in the center of the town. The Howard Bates home, set back off Water Street at Cannon, received an award for a door with a pink tree made of rosettes. The Doninger home on Main Street has a beautifully simple floodlit fan door with an attractive green spray. A certificate was given for this striking door. Down the Street the Farley home is outlined with colored lights in a most colorful display.

In the black velvet of the night at the wharf,
 a simple tree shaped triangle of colored light frames an illuminated St Nick. This wharf decoration stands out as it enhances the focal point of the town. William Suzan will receive partment has mounted an extensive display at the Town Hall and will receive a certificate. Both churches are beautiful in the center. The simple floodlit tower of the Congregational Church shows from every part of the town. St. Anthony's Church has a simple outline of lights and was awarded a certificate.

Mrs. William Suzan, Sr., Mr. Earle Wilson and Mr. Donald Jason had the pleasure of touring the town. Mr. Samuel Bertram of the Improvement Association covered every part as chauffeur. The awards were decided by this committee of three and speaking for all of them, the townspeople have done an outstanding job. Wherever you travel, the town sparkles with light and color which accents the joy of this Christmas season.

Special whist party report was given by Ada Furtado who, with Mrs. Jennie Toolis were hosts for the December 9th whist party.

A cordial welcome was given four new members coming into the Subordinate Grange. Presented by the master they are Carl and Donna Hubbard, Susan and Christine Bence.

Barry Denham gave a most interesting report on his attendance at the Home and Community Service State Committee luncheon in Boston last week, sponsored by the arthritis project committee of the Massachusetts State Grange Home and Community Service Committee and Mr. Milton Fitch who is the head organizer for the State Grange project. As past master of the Juvenile Grange when the Juniors did much work for the arthritis project, Barry was presented the certificate award with the gold star for Mattapoisett Juvenile Grange No. 43 as first place in the Junior Arthritis project.

He also had the opportunity to see the work being done at the laboratory sponsored by the State Grange in the research for help for arthritis patients.

Under new business Susan Bence was elected lady assistant steward and was installed by Alton Bailey, past master of Wamsutta Grange.

During the lecturer's hour a Christmas party was enjoyed. The lecturer's prize went to Gertrude Francis of Smith Mills Grange.

A contest was held on dressing Santa Claus. Ruby Barber, Jennie Toolis and Ada Furtado were each given a newspaper, 1/3 roll each of red, white and black paper, pins and a pair of scissors. With this they dressed Santas in a complete outfit. Taking part as
